Northern Italy – Rich in Art, Scenery, and History

Thursday, April 11

Life in northern Italy differs in many ways from that in southern Italy, but not in the love of art. We will explore the amazing art of Florence. Michaelangelo was born near here. Marvel at the art and architecture created by Michaelangelo during his early years in Florence. Pinocchio was created near Florence. Northern Italy has its own Riviera, which we will visit. We will explore resort lakes and mountains on Italy's northern border with Switzerland. In Siena, we see the town square where an unusual horse race is held. The jockey does not know what horse he will ride until race day. Only the winner and the loser are recognized. Visit Donatella's vineyard. Growing grapes and turning them into wine are all done by women working on her lands. Finish by exploring St. Mark's Square, glass blowing, and other sights on the canals of Venice.

Amazing Southwest United States

Texas is big; Arizona has the Grand Canyon; and New Mexico the Carlsbad Caverns and “possibly” UFO’s who crashed near Roswell. Scenery in these three states range from stifling hot desert to lofty snow covered mountains to far west Texas where you can walk across the Rio Grande with water less than waist high. In Texas, visit LBJ and the 2 George Bush Presidential libraries; Fort Davis home of “the Buffalo Soldiers; the movie set constructed for “The Alamo” starring John Wayne; and Judge Roy Bean’s town of Langtry “west of the Pecos”. Along the way see alligators, road runners, and other wildlife of Texas. In New Mexico, see the Bradbury museum in Los Alamos documenting the building of the first atomic bomb. Visit the UFO museum in Roswell and investigate the origins of the UFO stories. Walk down and into Carlsbad Caverns. See the Painted Desert and touch petrified wood in Petrified Forest National Park in Arizona. Drive through beautiful scenery around Sedona. Marvel at the Grand Canyon’s depth and beauty. Gaze at Montezuma’s Castle built high into the rock south of Flagstaff.
